

147 Farmer Lisa

Although based on a real-life neighbor and community member, this figure embodies independent women farmers around the world. Farmer Lisa is very much part of the revival of small farms, farmers markets, artisan foods, handcrafted items and the movement toward sustainability- all things that I believe represent a higher quality of life and a healthy planet.

Farms such as Lisa's specialize in everything from heritage poultry to homespun clothing. She has a passion for her community and for the restoration of native habitat and is a champion of sustainability and continued education.

Farmer Lisa and her contemporaries may be the foundation of our economic and community salvation.
